The Digital Dilemma: Software Integration Skills for Students (Rising 7th or 8th)

Students aren't afraid of trying any new software application, game or social media app. But ask students if they can easily format a school resume, manipulate data from their latest sports game into a spreadsheet, animate a presentation with a TEDx video and related photos from social media, organize a project for a club or create a digital file system and you will get a blank stare and shoulder shrug emoji. Yet these are some of the most basic skills students need to be able to leverage to succeed in high school, college, at an internship or future job. Ditch the digital dilemma and register for this interactive class that will teach your student important skills on the most common software applications while integrating study apps straight from their phone and other devices. Each student will leave with their own presentation covering the key takeaways and lessons learned from the class.

COST: $315.00 (Mon – Fri)

The Digital Dilemma: Software Integrations Skills for RISING HIGH SCHOOL Students:

This course will teach basic software integration skills students need to know in high school, college, or for internships. Through this week, high school students will acquire important skills on the most common software applications used in school and work while grasping a better understanding of communication and message hierarchy in presentations. Students will leverage digital media, learn to format a student resume, manipulate data in spreadsheets, build a compelling presentation, and learn the importance of an organized digital file system relevant for high school. Each student will leave with their own presentation covering the key takeaways and lessons learned from the class around a subject they choose like starting a club, preparing for college, or solving a social issue at their school. Ideally, students will continue to improve their work and leverage it to advance their initiative over the summer and school year. There will be light homework between sessions.

WHEN: August 6-10

TIME: 2:00pm – 3:30pm

COST: $315 Per Camper

Study Skills & Note Taking Back to School Boot Camp (Rising 7th/8th)

This signature course is designed to kick off the semester on the right foot and help students improve their study habits in the areas of organization, time management, goal setting, note taking, reading comprehension, test preparation and understanding learning styles. The course is a system for success not only for academics but also for life. Instructors keep students actively engaged and attempt to incorporate aspects of the middle school curriculum at the student's respective school whenever possible to make the course even more applicable. Students who have taken an introduction to study skills will benefit from this deeper dive. Parents often state how important they feel this course was for helping their student transition well in high school and college. Students say the course is fun and helpful and that they would refer it to their friends.

Course fee includes a student workbook and feedback.

Writing Extraordinary Essays (Rising 5th/6th)

Learn how to engage your teachers with your writing and not ruin the reading with poor punctuation and grammar or flat conclusions. This writing workshop will focus on the famous 5-paragraph essay that all middle school students should be able to write while not losing their voice in their writing. Students will also gain confidence in writing essays under the pressure of the clock. Topics that will be covered include idea generation, thesis statements, punctuation, essay directives, leads, conclusions, transitions, and proofreading. Course fees include student workbook

Multi-Sport Conditioning Camp Description (Rising 5th – 8th Graders):

Many kids nowadays don't have a solid understanding of the muscles they use in their individual sports, how to use them most efficiently, or how to take care of those muscles after working out. In this multi-sport conditioning camp, the camp instructor will explain to kids some of the most mechanically efficient ways to use their bodies to their advantage during training, competition, and recovery, thereby preventing injury, prolonging their sports participation, and giving them a competitive edge on and off the court or field. Campers will also gain exposure to the psychology of successful training during video analysis. Campers will be challenged but will have fun and gain new insights around the way they condition in the future as they prepare for the Fall.

WHEN: August 6-10

TIME: 9:00am-11:00am followed by optional lunch 11:00am-12:00pm
